

Classifying Animals

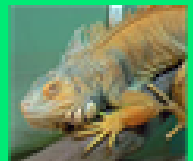

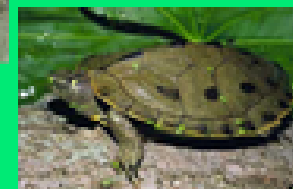

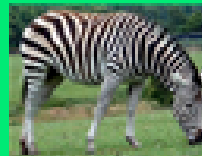

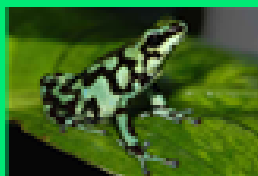

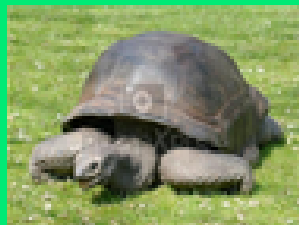

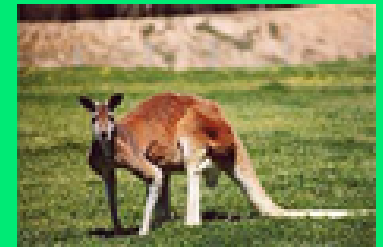

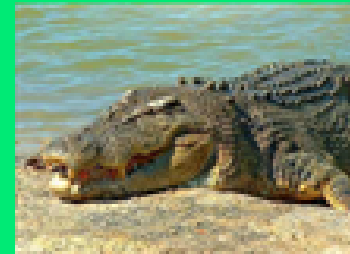

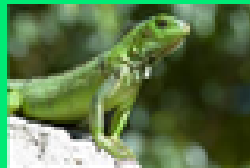

Mammals are animals that have hair, most mothers have live births, and they make milk to feed their young.

Mammals:

Reptiles are animals with scales covering their bodies and they breathe through their lungs their whole lives.

Reptiles:

Amphibians start life in the water and many move to land as they grow. Young amphibians have gills and adult amphibians breathe through their lungs.

Amphibians:

